NUMBER DECREASING

Not Quite as Many Killed at Chicago as First Reported.

TWELVE DEAD AND TWO DYING.

Some of the Injured May Increase This Number, and Still There Is a Belief That Some of the Victims' Bodies Have Been Entirely Cremated and That the Great Number of Dead Will Never Be Known.

CHICAGO, July 12.—Thirty-six hours after the occurrence of the calamity which shrouded the handsome white city in gloom, the most conservative estimates of the number of killed shrink slightly. The dead are now known to be 12, while two sufferers are lying in the emergency hospital gasping away the few hours of life which are yet allotted them.

The numbered dead include those who died in the hospital from their injuries and the unfortunate whose charred and blackened trunks were taken from the mass of debris now adorning the space near the Sixty-fourth street entrance where once stood a handsomely whitewashed structure. The unknown dead will probably never be known, but efforts will be made by the aid of powerful machinery to lift the net work of freezing pipes allowing the firemen to delve still deeper for the remains which it is conceded by all are certainly wedged below.

The following list is explanatory of the fatalities:

The dead:

James Fitzpatrick, 54 years old, captain engine company No. 2.

John H. Freeman, lieutenant, company No. 1.

William Denning, truck company No. 1.

M. Hartman, a lineman.

Philip P. Breen, truck company No. 8.

Captain James A. G. Garvey, engine company No. 1.

John McBride, pipeman engine company No. 8.

John Cahill, truck company No. 8.

Paul Schroeder of truck company No. 8.

Burton E. Page, captain truck company No. 8.

Charles Purvis, lieutenant engine company No. 4.

John A. Smith, driver engine company No. 4.

Those fatally injured are:

L. J. Frank, engine company No. 1, expected to die at any time.

Sigmund Nordrum, engine company No. 2, can not live 12 hours.

The four Columbian guards who were reported in the list of missing, have been heard from. John Mullery, H. V. Brown, G. E. Irvine and Charles Fletcher have reported to Captain Smith. They were ordered to report to a different captain, but in some manner the order miscarried and as the guards did not report at the company headquarters to which they had been ordered, it was, of course, concluded that the men had gone down to death in the big tinder box.

At daylight Marshal King and 20 laborers were at work on the ruins. They used their implements well and by 7 o'clock three bodies were recovered from the ruins but they were so badly charred and disfigured as to make recognition absolutely impossible. One thing seemed quite evident, however, and that is, that the bodies discovered are not the remains of firemen. The locality in which they were found seems to preclude this possibility. All the firemen who lost their lives were huddled in the dreadful firetrap at the top of the shaft and as they fell victims, one by one, to the flames, their bodies fell somewhere within the small circles surrounding the smokestack. The last bodies recovered were evidently not the remains of any who jumped or fell from the tower because they were found at a somewhat remote distance from this point and under a mass of steam pipe, and machinery that must have fallen from above.

That gives color to the fearful apprehension that the firemen were by no means the only ones who fell victims to the flames, and the public is disposed to doubt the declarations that employees and visitors were out of the building before the conflagration had reached a dangerous stage. The search work went on with but one short intermission until 10 minutes past 4, when one more body was brought to the surface. Like the others it was charred beyond recognition. The only remnant of clothing left was a patch of linen the size of a hand, which clung to the small of the back of the victim. The body was taken to Rolston's morgue, where it added one to the death colony.

At 5 o'clock the picks of the workmen let light in on another body. It was found just under the edge of the network of pipes, and was extricated with difficulty. The body was broiled all to pieces, and as identification was out of the question, it was taken to the morgue. This makes the total number of bodies recovered 12.

There are reports yet to be heard to the effect that Henry Geduldig, foreman of the painters in the cold storage building is missing, together with a carpenter, John Campbell, but many others who were thought to have been lost have turned up, and it is presumed that these men have escaped.

Marshal Murphy is convinced that there are more bodies in the ruins. He said: "We have accounted for the firemen and a lineman. But what of those carpenters and painters? The joint was full of men when I went up there and I noticed particularly two men carrying little blast stoves used in soldering. They, as was the case with the carpenters, did not realize the extent of the danger, and were standing around."

In regard to the reports he had made on the unsafe condition of the building, the chief said guardedly: "I corresponded in my official capacity only with Mr. Burnham, director of works. I have sent three letters in regard to the condition of the building and have reported to him after each of the four fires, and recommended that something be done at once to prevent a recurrence of the affair."

Coroner Investigating.

Sad scenes were witnessed at Rolston's Hyde Park morgue where Coroner McHale and Deputy Kelly empanelled a jury to sit in the inquest over the bodies of the victims of the cold storage fire. Eleven bodies had been brought to the morgue. From the fearful condition in which the bodies were charred and burned identification was almost impossible. In only a few cases was the identity of the remains placed beyond doubt.

After some delay the jury was empanelled by Coroner McHale and taken down to the basement of the morgue to view the remains. After inspecting the charred remains the coroner and jury drove to the Kenny's morgue at 522 State street, where the remains of Captain James Fitzpatrick had been taken from the world's fair hospital. After returning from this place to Rolston's morgue, Coroner McHale decided to adjourn the inquest until Thursday next.

"I want to have time to prepare for a thorough investigation. This is a serious matter, and I shall call upon Mr. Burnham and Chief Sweenie to be in attendance for examination. The plans of construction of the cold storage warehouse will be brought before me. It is rumored that two sets of plans are in existence. The first set, it is said, provided for a tower of steel lattice work for the warehouse, and these were adopted. Subsequently a new set was prepared in which wood was substituted for the steel, and from these the structure was put up. I don't know how much truth there is in the report, but I propose to find out. Another reason that a postponement is necessary, is that more bodies may be brought. I am informed that some yet remain in the debris of the building."

THE RESPONSIBILITY.

It Is Said That the Fair Management Had Been Warned.

CHICAGO, July 12.—The assertion is general that the world's fair management is not wholly without blame for the disaster. Time and time again, it is said, word was sent to the council of administration of the dangerous condition of the cold storage warehouse, but they paid no heed to it. A few weeks ago the world's fair officials issued an order withdrawing the guards on duty there, as the company operating the warehouse refused to pay for them. Colonel Rice objected strenuously to this move, and went to the council of administration and told that body the building was a firetrap and that it should not be left unprotected.

The council, it is alleged, paid no heed to the warning, but went ahead and withdrew the guards. Then Marshal Murphy made a full report of the dangerous manner in which the structure was built. He told them how it endangered the world's fair buildings. If a fire should break out in the warehouse, with strong west or south wind, it was liable to sweep over the entire white city. This undoubtedly would have been the case had the wind not been from the northeast. Less than 100 feet east of the warehouse stands the building of the Pennsylvania railroad. Close beside this is the Waukeisha building, and adjoining that is the railway shed and the terminal station. To the north is the great transportation building.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE MEETING. Provisions for the Inspection of Other Buildings.

CHICAGO, July 12.—The holocaust was the principal subject of discussion at the meeting of the national committee. Immediately after calling the commissioners to order, President Palmer said: "It seems proper to me that the commissioners should take some action upon the sad event and also take some action, if we are not powerless, to prevent a recurrence of things of this kind. I would suggest that the cause of the commission be embodied in a resolution that the chief buildings which are frequented, or whose roofs are being frequented by the public, should be inspected. It is my opinion that there are several buildings here from which, in case fire takes place, it would be impossible to take people off the roof in event of damage to the elevators. The public will not hold us guiltless unless we do all in our power to prevent it."

Commissioner Barbour of Michigan presented a resolution of respect for the memory of the dead, which was adopted by a rising vote. On motion of Commissioner Mercer of Wyoming a resolution was adopted providing for the appointment of a special committee of four to inspect the buildings as regards the safety of human life in case of fire upon the grounds. Mr. Castlemore of Kentucky presented a resolution, which was adopted, directing the committee on buildings and grounds to request the Chicago board of fire underwriters to report to the national commission the condition of the various buildings.

One of the Firm Talks.

John B. Skinner, president of the Hercules iron works, which owned the cold storage building, declared that the building was the strongest on the world's fair grounds. "The construction department of the fair" continued Mr. Skinner, "supervised the work on the cold storage building, and Director of Works Burnham and his men were frequently at the place while it was being built. The building was substantially built as it could be. It was necessarily strong, for we put $100,000 into the structure, and there was machinery within it walls worth fully as much more."

Relief Coming In.

After the cold storage fire horror came the display of human sympathy for the widows and children of its victims. Subscriptions and offers of substantial help came in all day to President Highbotham, who acted as trustee to the relief fund, and the total amount of the subscription fund now amounts to $4,310. The banner proposition came by letter from Charles T. Yerkes, the street railway president and a director of the fair. He suggested that the directors should designate one day on which all the receipts at the gates should be contributed to the relief fund. President Yerkes said he would pay $2,500 for his ticket.

CONDITION OF CROPS.

SENSATIONAL MURDER.

An Unknown Man's Body Found in a Wheat Field.

LEBANON, Pa., July 12.—What may prove to be a sensational murder has just been brought to light by the finding of the body of an unknown man in the wheat field on the farm of Peter Engel, in Londonderry township. Coroner Reager of this city viewed the corpse and found that the man had been shot twice in the head and also stabbed in two places.

The body was that of an apparently well-bred man of about 35 years, clean shaven. It had been dragged about 100 feet into the field and had only a shirt and a pair of pantaloons. The victim is supposed to be a drummer who, after being waylaid on the road and robbed, was murdered and the body hastily concealed in the field. There is no clew to the murderer.

JACKSON, Mich., July 12.—The 15 round glove contest here last night between LaBlanche, the Marine, and Bob Manning was stopped in the eighth round by the police. In the third round Manning knocked the "Marine" under the ropes, but up to the seventh, aside from this, the men clinched most of the time. The last two rounds, however, became so hot that the police were satisfied that it was to be a knockout and interfered. Manning appeared to have a little of the best of the fight at the close.

MR. ROBERT KIRK, Mason County's Jailer, is an aspirant for re-election to the position, subject, of course, to the action of his party at the primary next October. Mr. Kirk has demonstrated his running qualities in the past, and the man that defeats him will have to be a hustler. Under the Democratic custom of giving faithful officials an endorsement, he and his many friends feel that he is justly entitled to another term.

MR. G. W. BLATTERMAN, County Superintendent of Schools, is announced as a candidate for re-election. His present term will not expire until August, 1894, but a clause in the new school law requires his successor to be chosen at the election next November. He is serving his first term, and that he is making an efficient official all will concede. No Superintendent has ever given closer and more faithful attention to the duties of the position.

HON. THOMAS R. PHISTER is announced as a candidate for re-election to the office of County Judge. He is regarded as one of the brightest members of the Maysville Bar, and his qualifications for the position are acknowledged on every hand. An eloquent speaker and a thorough Democrat, he has done effective work in upholding and advancing the cause of his party in past campaigns. He feels that he is justly entitled to a hearty endorsement.

THE contest for the office of County Attorney promises to be one of the liveliest of the campaign now on. There are three aspirants so far announced for the Democratic nomination, Mr. John L. Chamberlain, Mr. Frank P. O'Donnell and Mr. William T. Cole. They are all promising young attorneys, worthy citizens and thorough-going Democrats. Each has a host of warm friends throughout the county, and the fight for the nomination will be interesting from start to finish.

COUNTY CLERK T. M. PEARCE is announced as a candidate for re-election, and he will probably be awarded the nomination without opposition. He is serving his first term, and his few years' service in the office has demonstrated that he is thoroughly fitted for the position. None of his predecessors ever gave more faithful attention to the official duties than he has. His democracy is sound to the core; and he has always been one of the most active workers for his party's success.

Why the Great Eastern Failed.
Referring to the failure of the Great Eastern, which at the time was attributed to her size, in comparison with the success which now attends boats of nearly the same dimensions, how plain now to naval architects, vessel owners and in fact everybody possessing even a limited knowledge of the requirements as to power in large steam vessels is the main cause of failure in the Great Eastern. Her power was entirely out of proportion to her great length and other dimensions. The dimensions of Atlantic liners are now approaching to nearly the size of the Great Eastern. The length of the Great Eastern was 680 feet and her horsepower 7,650. The new Cunard liner Campania is 620 feet long, but her horsepower will be 30,000, and it is said that the boat which the White Star Line proposes to build at Belfast, Ireland, will be 700 feet long. It is the difference of power to which attention is called, however.—Marine Review.

A CARD.

To the Democrats of Mason County: The revised school laws as passed by our late Legislature provide that County Superintendents of Schools shall offer for election the 7th of November, 1893, to enter upon a new term of office August 15th, 1891, and continue until 8th of January, 1894. I, therefore, present myself to your favorable consideration as a candidate for re-election, and ask for your endorsement. It is a custom with the Democratic party to accord to officials a second term of office. I feel reluctant to speak of my own services during the three years that I have held this office. I may say, however, that my entire time and such qualifications as I may possess have been devoted to my official duties, unremittingly. I have not engaged in any other occupation, nor worked for any other office. I have received numerous offers of agencies and perquisites, commissions, etc., which I have invariably refused, believing that my time and services belonged to the public. Your schools were never in a more flourishing condition; there is manifest an increased disposition to improve school property throughout the county, and I note with satisfaction the readiness with which my notices have been observed and the consequent improvement in many school districts. The requirements of my office do not admit of my making a personal canvass of the whole county, but I trust you will nevertheless record me the same generous support that you have done in the past. Respectfully,

G. W. BLATTERMAN,
Superintendent of Public Schools, Mason County.

THAT TROUBLE AT MONTREAL.

It Was Caused by a Converted Hindoo's Remarks at the Endeavor Convention.

An Associated Press dispatch, taken from the Cincinnati Enquirer, was published yesterday giving an account of the trouble at the International Christian Endeavor Convention at Montreal on Sunday. The dispatch stated that the trouble originated in some remarks made by a speaker at the convention, but did not state what these remarks were. From another dispatch it is learned that the address that caused the disturbance was made at the convention Saturday evening by Rev. S. V. Karmarhar, a converted Hindoo. The dispatch says:

"The speaker exhibited specimens idols before whom the natives bowed down. One of them represented Krishna, who married 16,000 wives. Then came the first anti-Rome utterance heard at any of the meetings. Said this speaker: 'There is a remarkable similarity between Romish worship and Hindoo worship. Romanism is but a new label on the old bottle of paganism containing the deadly poison of idolatry. Often the Hindoos ask, when seeing the Romish worship, what is the difference between Christianity and Hindooism?' In India we have not only to contend with the hydra-headed monster of idolatry, but also the octopus of Romanism."

"There was some applause at this juncture. The French papers denounced the speech in bitter terms, and censured the Christian Endeavorists for applauding the speaker.

"Prior to this the delegates had been received by both Catholics and Protestants with the greatest enthusiasm, and from the pulpits of the Catholic churches the priesthood had asked their congregations to do everything to welcome and entertain the endeavorists."

VETOED IT.

The Governor Kills the Resolution to Appoint Commissioners to Codify the Laws.

Governor Brown has vetoed the resolution passed during the closing days of the Legislature providing for collecting, codifying, classifying, arranging, indexing and editing the general laws of the Commonwealth. One of the grounds of objection is that the committee was given the extraordinary power to make such omissions from the acts as should be necessary to avoid redundancy, and they were not forbidden to alter the text of the laws, if in their judgment the "meaning" was not changed.

The Governor also holds that the appointment of the Commissioners from the General Assembly is not in keeping with the spirit of Section 44 of the Constitution which states that "no Senator or Representative shall, during the term for which he was elected nor for one year thereafter be appointed or elected to any civil office of profit to the Commonwealth, which shall have been created, or the emoluments of which shall have been increased, during the said term except to such offices as may be filled by the election of the people."

The Commissioners were appointed by the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate, the day the Legislature adjourned, from the members of the Assembly.

That New Comet.

It is said the new comet resembles a fixed star at present. It is moving with great rapidity toward the sun. The directions for finding it, which may be done about 8:30 in the evening, is to draw a line perpendicularly from the bowl of the great dipper down through two stars located near each other, and continue it downward about five times the distance between the two stars, where the comet can readily be distinguished. It is thought by astronomers to be an entirely new comet, hence only observations will show any facts regarding its velocity or size. As it is rapidly approaching perihelion it will continue to grow brighter day by day.

3. That the acreage of oats, barley, rye and similar grains has increased and that the crop will be large.
4. That the hay crop is everywhere above the average.
5. That the fruit crop is generally poor and in many cases a total failure.
6. That the general condition of the agricultural section is excellent, the outlook promising and the farmers cheerful and hopeful.

SAYS the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette: "Assistant General Passenger Agent Charles Bustling Ryan, of the Chesapeake and Ohio, is making preparations for the first excursion to the seaside, which will be run July 13 over the C. and O. the 'quickest road to the sea and the most beautiful one.' Inquiries are pouring into the office at a great rate, and as a consequence Mr. Ryan is wearing his double-edge excursion smile, which he seriously contemplates patenting. The objective point of the excursion will be Old Point Comfort."

MRS. SARITA B. TAMPLET, of Cincinnati, Texas, has written to a friend at Washington, the birth place of Colonel Alex. McClung, giving him some account of the flag, a short notice of which appeared in a recent issue of the BULLETIN. She also sent him a piece of the interesting relic, rusty and worn with time and service. It is likely that the piece may be presented to the Mason County Historical Society, as it would naturally possess interest for the people of the county, the one to whom the flag was originally presented having been a distinguished and talented son of Mason, aside from the notoriety attained by his frequent duels which his friends always claimed were all forced on him, he having been not at all fond of such affairs, although he never refused to grant anyone such satisfaction. Colonel McClung once challenged Jeff Davis to fight while that distinguished ex-Kentuckian was Secretary of War, but Mr. Davis declined the proposal of his old comrade in arms. Mrs. Tampllet spoke very highly of Colonel McClung, as her father's best and truest friend, and for whom one of her brothers was named. She also enclosed a recent letter from one of the old command, a highly intelligent gentleman, fully corroborating all she claimed for the flag, he having been at Columbus, Miss., when the presentation speech was made, and followed the flag through the war.

GERMAN SINGERS.

Thousands of Them Assemble
In Cleveland, Ohio.

A GALA TIME IN THAT CITY.

Twenty-Seventh Meeting of the Saengerfest of the North American Saengerbund—The Growth of the Society in Forty-Five Years—The Opening Concert.

CLEVELAND, July 12.—Representatives from all the great German singing societies of the world are in this city. It is the 27th saengerfest of the North American Saengerbund, the 27th triennial gathering since the initial affair in Cincinnati in 1849, when the exiles of 1848 received a royal welcome.

Five societies were represented then, three from Cincinnati and one each from Madison, Ind., and Louisville, Ky. Since then the Bund has grown steadily, until about 100 societies in all parts of the central west are enrolled in it, and the 110 singers of the first fest is increased to 3,000 at this one. Other German singing societies besides those in the Bund are present, and not less than 150 vocal societies will participate in the seven grand concerts to be given.

The Germans here have spared no expense to make the occasion one long to be remembered by all who attend. For a year or more they have been planning and working, and now have the satisfaction of feeling that arrangements are splendidly completed. The first great task was the awarding of the $1,000 prize for the best musical composition written for the occasion. Notice of the offer was widely given not long after the New Orleans saengerfest, and the compositions were submitted six months ago. The judges were Conductor Emil Ring of this city, who is the saengerfest director; Arthur Claassen of Brooklyn and Professor Xavier Scharwenka.

A large number of manuscripts were received, and the composition unanimously fixed upon as possessing the most merit was that of M. Heinrich Zoellner, conductor of the famous New York Liederkranz. Its title is "The New World," and the theme the discovery of America and the landing of Columbus. It is a cantata, with a double chorus, soprano and baritone solos and orchestral accompaniment. It will be given on Wednesday evening with Ritaelandi and Conrad Behrends as soloists. Several will be present, as well as the Junger Maennerchor of Philadelphia, the United Singers of Cincinnati and other well known societies.

The reception concert was participated in by 1,000 singers and listened to by an audience of 6,000. Mayor Blee welcomed the visitors to Cleveland, and Governor McKinley did a like duty for the state.

The concert was a great success. Mine. Rita Eland, the prima donna, received an ovation to which she responded by singing "Home, Sweet Home." Miss Lena Little, the contralto, Baron Berthold, the tenor, and Gustave Bernickie, the basso, fully vindicated their high reputation as vocalists.
